Howell, daughter of the late Evan Howell, daughter of the late Evan Howell, telephone company of ficial, and niece of Mrs. A. A. Heidenreich, and Clark Howell, president and editor of The Constitution, has realized the dream of practically every ambitious young singer.

Paul Whiteman, king of orchestra leaders, Monday night signed a contract with Miss Howell to appear as a solist with his orchestra, and, in announcing her as his latest "singing find," stated he would soon present her in a formal debut.

"I can hardly believe it," Mrs. Heidenreich said. "When I received the telegram from Adelaide I knew whe must be the happiest girl in the world. She had achieved the goal for which she had been striving for more than two years."

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 12.—(P)—
Senator Walter F. George today said the leadership of President Roosevelt was the type that made him as great a commander-in-chief as was Woodrow Wilson, wartime president.

In an Armistice Day address Senator George said the clouds of depression were rapidly clearing and added that problems now confronting the nation eventually would be solved.

"The lessons we learned from the war are that as Americans our first obligations are to the disabled veteran and the necessity for providing superior training, if, unhappily, war should come again," he said in taking a stand for a stronger national defense.

Senator George pledged his support to measures looking toward a better-trained army.

Afteg the armistice exercises Senator George was guest at a luncheon given by the executive committee of the local American Legion post.

In the afternoon he went to Fort Benning to witness a military review and to inspect the garrison.

As a member of the senate finance committee, Senator George said last night that he would urge new tax legislation providing that expenditures for permanent improvements be deducted from incomes, as a means to boost the building improvement campaign.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 12.

(P)—DeLacy Allen, state commander of the American Legion, declared in an Armistice Day address here today that the Georgia department would emphasize the accomplishment of a "fair chance for every boy and girl in Georgia" in its program this year.

The Armistice Day program was in charge of the Norris Little nost of the American Legion and auxiliary. The speech of Commander Allen was held in the auditorium of the Georgia State College for Women following a parade from the campus of the Georgia Military College to the women's college with cadets and various civic and patriotic organizations in the line of march.

Allen made an appeal for adequate compensation and rehabilitation for World War veterans and adequate defense.

The Legion program for boys and girls, the state commander went on, will be directed along two lines, one almost of the Georgia educational system and the other to strengthen the child welfare program launched a year ago. Commander Allen said the Legion would ask the legislature to arrange it so that every child in Georgia can be given a chance to attend a nine-month school with a com at new low prices - 3 years to pay

During the last twenty years, many home owners have bought new furniture and new household equipment, while the old bathroom has remained unchanged. It's a wonderful tribute to our industry that good Plumbing Fixtures, skillfully installed by Master Plumbers, give such long, faithful service that many people do not realize how unsightly and inefficient are the old fixtures compared with those of modern design.

Today, there is no need of delaying the installation of modern Plumbing Fixtures any longer. Under the National Housing Act, you can have the most modern "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures installed without down payment - with as long as three years to pay. "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures cost no more than others. Adjustments and reductions in prices have been made, but our high standard of quality, material and workmanship remains the same - nothing has been lowered except the price.

Your Master Plumber can arrange all of the details of installing new Plumbing Fixtures under the National Housing Act-help you select the right fixtures - advise you in choosing colors that harmonize - then assure you full value and service through skillful installation. "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures are sold through Master Plumbers to protect the buyer, because even the best plumbing fixtures will not give service unless properly installed in accordance with laws and regulations set up to safeguard public health.

Let your Master Plumber help you solve your plumbing problems. Ask him to show you the new "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures. Let him explain how little it costs to have really modern Plumbing Fixtures installed now.

Germany's reputed ability to produce 9000 planes monthly were causing grave concern to the new premier and his cabinet.

Defense ministers of air, war and the navy were expected to ask parliament for additional appropriations in conformity with Air Minister Victor Denian's warning that "Germany is ready."

Denian, when he took office in February, told parliament the French air fleet was obsolete and proved the point during annual air maneuvers which the army admitted showed the ease with which an invader could lay waste French cities.

Modern bombing and pursuit planes are being built in small quantities, and when they are tested the air ministry plans to launch an inclusive construction program.

Recent information, assertedly from high military quarters, was to the effect that Germany had factories in operation some of which were capable of producing 30 planes a day.

The total air fleet across the Rhine was admitted to be still a mystery.

Since repeal, this country is going the teeth. I do not mean to infer that the practice of brushing the teeth causes these conditions, but merely that it has failed to prevent them. Personally I reached this conclusion when booming industry attracted millions from the farms to the industrial centers.

In 1890 there were nearly twice as many rural dwellers in the United States as urban, the figures being 40,649,000 to 22,980,000, By 1910 the margin had narrowed, but there were still 49,806,000 in the country, with 42,166,000 in the cities.

The decade between 1910 and 1920 saw this margin wiped out, the census of the latter year show-Ing that there were 54,304,000 in the cities and only 51,406,000 in clear titles is the hereafter. rural communities. It is to bring about a more normal distribution of the population of the country, as between city and rural dwellers, that the homesteads program has been evolved by the federal government. News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

CHEER WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 .- The white shirts have changed ties. Those black crapes they wore so long in mourning for New Deal deficiencies have lately been discarded. The bestdressed industrialist, you may have noticed, is now setting a more cheerful style.

- It started about three weeks before election. At that time the beliwether boys sent word down the sideline advising a less critical attitude toward the New Deal. The leadership is supposed to have been undertaken by the intelligently directed National Association of Manufacturers. At least the handouts from that influential group lately have assumed a new co-operative

Everyone knows the bankers fell in line, but few noticed that the business news dispensers have also. A month ago, the latter group was telling the business world President Roosevelt destroyer of the constitution; today he is its sole defender, in their

From a strictly business standpoint, everyone here considers that the change of style is the best thing that could have happened for business.

CAUSE The contributing reason for the change is more important and less obvious than the election. It had its deep roots in the growing feeling that money could be made in business today if more men would go out and try to do it, instead of sitting down yelling for help. They began to realize that they could make more money by accepting conditions and trying to run their businesses profitably in the light of existing conditions, instead of devoting themselves to fighting against something they could not change anyway.

The boys in Wall Street caught on to that first. They fought against regulation, but when they were licked, they started trying to make money under regulation by co-operation rather than by gloomy

That does not mean the industrialists, the financiers and the bankers are for the New Deal, or that they will stand it any longer than they have to. It means merely that they got wise.

ENCOURAGEMENT The December radio talk by Mr. Roosevelt will contain those new ideas he has been secretly cooking up in his conferences with businessmen and budgetary officials. He has about cleaned up the business con-Lately he got down to some small fry whose names did not appear in the papers, and need not have.

The hint has been dropped that he will break the budget and relief plans in the radio speech. This will be more encouraging news than business has been expecting on that subject.

Probably included will be plans for self-help based on farm homesteading, a conservative five-year building program, work relief, a promised end of the dole-and possibly even a flotation of recovery bonds in small denominations.

The other plans for aiding the heavy industries, railroad reorganization, NRA, AAA, etc., may await his message to congress, which has been in the process of formulation for several weeks

DREAMING The New Dealers are already day-dreaming about 1936. The way they figure it out, Mr. Roosevelt cannot lose. Their idea is to get to work early on Maine. They want to run their popular democratic Governor Brann against Republican Senator White. If Brann defeats White, they would steal the old, inaccurate republican slogan: "As Maine goes, so goes the

Another good talking point they are preparing is the one that the senate is certain to be democratic after 1936. Not enough senators are up for re-election in '36 to deprive the democrats of control. They can tell the country that the election of a republican president would only botch things up.

But those are merely extraneous visions. The real one is based on the possibilities of establishing a Roosevelt democratic dynasty as self-perpetuating as the old republican machine. The democrats now have control of patronage down to the dog catcher in most states. In two years they can make every rural free delivery man into a vote deliverer, as the republicans did.

NOTES An excellent dark horse bet for democratic floor leadership is Massachusetts' Representative McCormack,

The democratic bosses may decide the speakership. Tammany, controlled by Farley; Illinois by Igoe, Pennsylvania by Guffey, New Jersey by Moore, will get their heads together on it shortly.

Neither Senator La Follette, nor Mr. Roosevelt will ever admit it, but one of the things they are supposed to have talked about at the White House is the possibility of appointing some members of La Follette's new progressive party to those various government commissions. The law will permit it.

Washington mourns some excellent republican congressmen cut down in the Roosevelt sweep, including Clyde Kelley, of Pennsylvania, and Fred Britten, of Illinois.

A republican authority has figured out that the election showed a decrease of 7,547,000 in the democratic vote since 1932, while the republican poll decreased only 2,300,000. This was probably due to many southern democrats not bothering to vote.

The December Roosevelt radio speech is the one Upton Sinclair

Bill Smith was a college professor and his one ambition was to make himself independent of bosses.

This ambition resulted from the experiences and conditions that had made him a professor.

In his boyhood he had dreamed of doing great things. But his parents were too poor to pay for his education and the hard business of paying his own way had spoiled his dreams and left him bitter. Like most of his colleagues, he called himself a liberal. Laymen

Each year of schooling had required a previous year of labor, and, since he had learned no trade, the labor was hard and ill-paid. PEEK TO SEEK BANK AID

IN FOREIGN TRADE DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(P)—

The government, pleased with assurance of co-operation of private banking interests, perfected plans today for an expanded drive to unshackle America's foreign trade.

George N. Peek, the president's foreign trade adviser, announced that significant conferences with a powerful committee of the American Bankers' Association would begin here November 22.

The advisory committee, named by R. S. Hecht, president of the bank' ers' association, will join Peek as president of the Export-Import bank in seeking to co-ordinate government and private financial support of American exporters. Thus they hope to meet government-subsidized competition from abroad which has made drastic inroads into America's once great export trade.

The development follows the recent peace efforts between the government and big banking interests, and is regarded here as the forerunner of plans to be placed before congress this winter in connection with the government's recovery efforts.

Peek already has given his promise he will go before congress this winter for power and funds to set up such an arrangement if he is assured of solid backing from all affected interests. A fund of $100,000,000 or more probably would be required to launch the venture.

High up on the agenda in the first meeting with the bankers, however, will be some plan to coax private bankers back into support of foreign shipping transactions.

Headed by Robert F. Maddox, director of the First National Bank of Atlanta, the bankers' advisory committee is composed of Joseph C. Rovensky, vice president of the Chase National Bank of New York, as vice chairman, and Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, as chief consultant.

North Carolina appealed to Secretary Ickes, who held a hearing on the mat-ter September 18 in Washington. Tennessee Gateway.

He said an additional advantage was that for about 60 miles it would traverse the Pisgah national forest and have to cross only three fairly large streams, the Lindville, the Swanponoa and the French Broad

On the other hand, he continued, the Tennessee route would have to cross seven rivers. He said the North Carolina route, running near the tops of the ridges as it will, will afford a view of the surrounding country and offer to the eye "scenery that would not be accessible to so great a degree if the Tennessee route were adopted."

Ickes said he was reluctant to over-rule the findings of his board. "How-ever, the state of North Carolina had the right of appeal to me, and since that right was exercised, it is my duty to decide the issues in accord-ance with my conscience and my best judgment," the secretary's letter said. Hugh Wilson, of the United States delegation to the preliminary naval conversations here, called on Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira, at the Japanese embassy, at 4 p. m., and sounded him out on this proposal. He hoped to gain such a pact in the event nothing else comes out of the naval conversations.

Tennessee Gateway.

Ickes, in his letter to the governors, said despite the fact the North Carolina location was chosen, "Tennessee would still have a gateway into the park equally, if not more, important than that which North Carolina will have at Cherokee."

"Through Gatlinburg will flow the tourist traffic from the great west and northwest," his letter said. "Some 73,000,000 people already dwell in the area west of the Allegheny mountains, which is tributary to the Gatlinburg entrance, while the area east of the Allegheny mountains from which access to the park will be through the Cherokee gateway, contains approximately 50,000,000 people.

Wilson and Matsudaira reliably were understood to have gone thoroughly into whether it were advisable to embody such a treaty in a general arms convention, or draft a separate agreement on it, In the face of difficulties incident to concluding a comprehensive arms accord, it was believed the major powers at present would favor a separate pact.

"Here is a present disproportion in favor of the Gatlinburg entrance of some 23,000,000 people beside which it is reasonable to expect that the growth in population in the country tributary to the Gatlinburg entrance will be much greater than in that section which will naturally seek the Cherokee entrance."

Ickes said the North Carolina route, by reason of its higher altitude, can be depended upon for lower temperatures during the months of greatest travel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(R)—
"Boarding homes" for mental cases, the sort of folks who used to be called "insane," were proposed to the National Committee for Mental Hygiene tonight in a report by its director. Dr. Clarence M. Hincks.

Boarding homes would be community affairs, supervised by a mental hospital, under Dr. Hincks' proposal, their objective to be "more economical and satisfying care for certain forms of mental disease and mental deficiency, a form of care proven successful in Europe."

Dr. Hincks emphasized that the word "insane" has passed, replaced by terms for specific diseases. Among the borderline cases that might be helped by treatment, he enumerated:

PEOPLE-110T MONEY.

IN THE CITIZENS & SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK, every employee is trained to keep this thought constantly in mind. We are dealing with people-not money.

Money is an essential tool in the operations. People transmit it to the bank for various purposes. The great majority place it there for safe-keeping-and that must always be the primary consideration of the bank men. Business men place it there so that it may be released into the channels of trade and industry, either on their order or through the medium of loans to promote business development. But always behind it is the will and desire of people—the men and women who make the bank possible.

People, who order it released to themselves or others, expect to find it available. Men who wish to borrow other people's money must expect to be governed by the wishes of those who own that money.

If the bank demands safeguards and assurances on a loan, they are acting not for themselves but for the people who made the money possible.

The bank men are perfectly willing to take the responsibility of lending the money—asking only a consideration of the sound banking principles which the depositor has a right to expect.

FAMOUS STORIES.
VII—Tom Thumb.
There never was a "Tom Thumb"— a little boy who walked and talked even though he was "as small as a thumb"—but there is an old English legend about such a boy. he could go into the treasury and take away "all that he could carry." There is a touch of humor in this part of the adventures; for all that Tom could carry was a silver three-penny coin. Struggling under this burden, he reached home, very tired indeed.

Tom Thumb on his father's knee. Tom Thumb, we are told, was born nto the family of a poor farmer who lived in a little cottage. His parents had a hard time keeping track of him, had a hard time keeping track of him, since he was so small.

One day when Tom was near his mother while she was miking a cow, he was mistaken for something to eat by the cow; and only good fortune—and his cry of alarm—saved him.

The person, or persons, who made up the Tom Thumb stories did not seem to care whether anyone would believe them or not. The tales go on to tell of a long train of events which took little Tom to the court of King Arthur, where he was well received.

When, at last, he asked to go home so that he might see his father and mother again, the king told him that

Later Tom asked to go back to King Arthur's court, and his mother said that he could do so. She gave him a tiny umbrella, blew her breath to get him started, and away he sailed through the air until he came to the king's palace. All were pleased to see him. He was made a knight, and see him. He was made a knight, and was given a mouse to ride on.

The verses of old English ballads tell the story of Tom Thumb.

"An oak-leaf hat, he had for his crown," says one verse. "His shirt of web by spiders spun, with jacket wove of thistle down; his trousers were of feathers done."

When he died, 'tis said that these words were placed on his tombstone: "Here lies Tom Thumb, King Arthur's knight, who died by a spider's cruel bite. He was well known in Arthur's court where he afforded gallant sport. He rode a tilt and tournament, and on a mouse a-hunting went."

A real person who went by the name of "Tom Thumb" was born in Connecticut in 1837. He was displayed to the public by Barnum, and was advertised as being "just two feet tall." At the age of 25, a measurement showed that he had a height of 31 inches, not a great deal, but much 31 inches, not a great deal, but much more than the Tom Thumb of legend. BAILEY'S 81 THEATRE Beats Reserved-Now on Sale

It appears that Atlantans have been presented with a thoroughly competent stock company in the Charles Emerson Cook Players, who made their bow to a local audience at the Erlanger theater last night.

Every member of the cast who appeared in "Her Master's Voice"—there are only seven needed for the play—did all that was required with flinesse and smooth workmanship. We'll get a chance to look over other members of the organization next week when "Men in White" is produced. There are some two dozen or more in the cast.

Helen Kingsley, an attractive blande, was leading woman last night, with Henry Richards in the principal male role. Miss Kingsley is tall and slender, with a pleasant voice and a sort of quiet charm that should make her many friends. Richards is youthful, good-looking, with wavy dark hair and a voice so pleasant it almost becomes tantalizing at times.

Evelyn Varden as "Mrs. Mařtin," the mother-in-law, really ran away with the show. She is a character worden with a pleasant voice and a children or to accept luxury as the protege of a domineering aunt. For the mother of two children, she made unbelievably unconcerned about or offsprings who, apparently, she leaves to the mercies of convenient neighbors for weeks on end with never a_worry or thought about 'em.

There are many lines of the spar-kling variety and one situation, half-ings laughs and surprise. It seems, however, hardly worth while building and the dialogue loses some of its brilliance through a hap-hazard sort of effect.

A nice, clean play, of course. Funny, but inconsequential.

Evelyn Varden as "Mrs. Martin," the mother-in-law, really ran away with the show. She is a character woman of first water and, with the lines provided in the Clare Kummer play, really made a. "fat" part—in the parlance of theater—"fatter."

Jessica Rogers had a difficult and rather unsympathetic role as "Aunt Min," but brought to it a carefully inflected performance and a genuine characterization. Really, while she should be seen in other roles before passing final judgment.

George Taylor, Robert Baldwin and Barbara Lumsden were others in the cast, in small roles performed with finish and satisfaction.

The staging last night reflected all credit on Howard Bay, in charge of the American Bankers' Association, as organization which in 1911 and 1912 Mr. Maddox also headed as president.

Ardent Tech Fan Freed For Drowning-Sorrows

As the records reveal, Georgia Tech lost a football game Saturday. John L. Smith, of 1132 Peachtree street, a Tech fan, was overwhelmed by the sting of defeat and sought solace in liquor, he told Recorder John L. Cone when arraigned Monday to answer to charges of drunkenness.

Recorder Cone, being somewhat of a Tech fan himself, knew something of the feeling Smith felt and after suggesting that Smith not take football too seriously dismissed the Magill's Resignation as Treasury Aid Revealed by Morgenthau.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 .- (A)-A iberal administration of the federal reserve system under the leadership of its new governor, Marriner S. Eccles, was indicated today by Secretary Morgenthau.

The secretary, who also is an ex officio chairman of the reserve board, declined to say what had been talked over today in a conference with Eccles and Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. But the liberal administration idea was advanced in other well-informed quarters. Shortly after those conferences, Mor-

Roosevelt Given Sample New Buick Zone Organization DEMAND FOR TRIAL To Start Functioning Nov. 15

J. O. Burks, 63, prominent planter of the Forrest Park district and de-voted member of the Forest Grove Baptist church died suddenly Monday morning while doing some work at bama territories. Mr. observed the activities of eleven district managers for Pontiac in this territory.

The zone offices for both Buick and Pontiac will remain in the General Motors building located at 512

Spring street.

It is understood the change will not affect individual dealers and distributors, many of whom are merchandising both Buick and Pontiac cars, except that they now will deal directly with the two factory sales organizations.

The move, seen as a development resulting from enlarged retail volume during the past year, re-establishes the separate sales entities of both Buick and Pontiac as was done in the manufacturing divisions a year

According to Mr. Curtice, it has ne cessitated a realignment of Buick sales zones throughout the country and the appointment of zone and field officials to fill important posts thus created.

Most of these appointments, Mr. Curtice said, have come from the present executive and field personnel, who, in conjunction with Pontiac operations, have conducted Buick sales in the past.

Under the reorganization, the United States sales map has been divided by Buick into 14 zones with headquarters in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Detroit. Pittsburgh, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Dallas, Kansas City, Atlanta and Memphis. Buick distributorships will continue as in COURT Of Appeals of Co.

LUCKY

If anyone in your family is occasionally sluggish or constipated; especially any child, you should know this medical truth:

proves they are.

You cannot get safe relief with any medicine if you cannot regulate the dose. And to regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. With a liquid laxative, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives

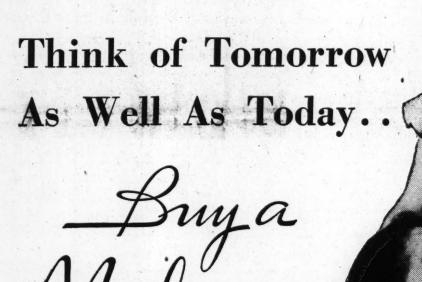

A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit - even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help them-

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 12.—Under the leadership of the Pan-Hellenic Council, students in the University of Georgia are making preparations for home-coming next week-end, which will be the outstanding social event of the fall quarter. In addition to the foot-ball game between the University and North Carolina State, there will be three dances—Friday evening. Saturday afternoon and Saturday night—in Woodruff hall and numerous fraternity house entertainments. An out-of-town orchestra will furnish music for the dances: Woodruff hall will be especially decorated under the dissection of Hubert Owens. associate professor of landscape architecture, and there will be hundreds of beau-tiful Georgia girls, including university oc-eds, in attendance.

Another important item on next week's social activity calendar is the annual stunt night, which is to be Thursday evening in the physical education building. Mrs. A. Rhodes, dean of women, has announced that freshmen women students in the university will be allowed to attend this event, which is arranged under the direction of the Georgia Glee Club, of which Professor Hugh Hodgson is the head. Musical and novelty numbers by members of the student body will constitute the program.

Members of the Pelican club were hosts at a dance on Saturday evening, to which a number of the university co-eds were invited. Dean and Mrs. Peuter Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. Peuter Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. Peuter Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brow

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(4)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, under bombardment of questions in the house of commons, admitted today that British former officers were being recruited for police duty in the forthcoming plebiscite in the Saar basin.

Isolationists in parliament had seized upon the issue for renewed attacks on the government for "interfering" in continental affairs.

MacDonald said the British government was "facilitating" the recruiting efforts of the League of Nations' Saar commission, but added the government "has no responsibility in the matter."

With the half million dollar fund to pay the costs of its campaign over a five-year period, the W. C. T. U. adopted a seven-point program of "al-cohol education." In addition to intensifying the teaching of alcohol's dangers in schools and churches as a part of this program, the union hopes to give wide publicity to its plans through the newspapers and radio broadcasts. The same program will endeavor to stop advertising of liquor in news-papers and by radio. The union also voted today to begin campaigns for peace, citizenship and character building.

STATE TAKES A HAND IN REYNOLDS CONTEST

WINSTON-SALEM. N. C., Nov. 12.—(A)—The state of North Carolina today stepped into the litigation over the $25,000,000 estate of the late Z. Smith Reynolds, seeking to cut a huge slice of inheritance taxes from the fortune before it is divided among the heirs.

Attorney-General Dennis G. Brummitt filed an intervention in Forsyth superior court on relation of A. J. Maxwell, commissioner of revenue. Judge P. A. McElroy signed an order granting the state's petition.

That a compromise settlement of the estate is near was indicated by the appearance in court of an array of counsel representing several of the litigating parties. They joined in asking that the motion of the Cabarus Bank & Trust Company be set for a hearing this week, and the court set Friday and Saturday, at which time all parties are to be represented and their arguments heard.

OLD DOG AUTUMN.

Old dog Autumn is in my heart, A lazy fellow with lop ears. All Summer long he has dozed apart, But now he stretches, and now he peers.

Old dog Autumn with gold brown coat, And nose of velvet and big paws; With deep eyes, and with handsome throat; And with tongue as pink as the fruit of haws.

He tells me that quail are covied close In the sweetgum hedgerows beyond the hill. He gets to his feet, and he lifts his nose To catch the scent as a good dog will.

He tells me that frost has cut the sedge. He tells me the air is crisp and fine. He says that the wind has a knife-keen edge And that fields are as ruddy as ripe old wine.

Over at Athens the clouds have lifted. The mutterings of alumni have changed to cheers. (Didn't we set a world's record beating Yale the fifth consecutive

At Athens the coaches and team are getting down to work for a finish. They have won two straight. They want very much to close out with victories over North Carolina State, Auburn and Georgia Tech.

The odds are they will. Georgia seems to have recovered from all injuries. And what is more important the same lineup has played in three consecutive games

No football team which has to shift lineups from game to game will go anywhere except hurriedly downhill. Tech'is an example. And so, for that matter, was Georgia in the early

The value of an experienced lineup is seen in the fact that Al Minot was kept in Georgia's lineup for most of the game because he had been in there and Cy Grant had been out with injuries.

Georgia is set to move forward and close out with five consecutive victories and finish with seven won and three lost in a tough schedule—a very good record indeed.

Out at Georgia Tech there is a different story. The team is really riddled with injuries. At least five players who faced Auburn were not really physically fit to play. The injury stories center. at Tech are not false ones.

In no two consecutive games have the Engineers been able to keep the same lineup.

Tech can't win the Alabama game. Tech will hardly have a chance to win from Florida.

But Tech is shooting for Georgia. By that time coaches hope to have the two Wilcox boys back in shape. Lawrence Hays, a good passer, will be ready. He hasn't appeared in two weeks. Tech is quite likely to go into the Georgia game on De-cember 1 with a record of eight consecutive games lost and shoot for that one-hoping to make a great season of it with what would be the first victory over Georgia since 1928. The effort appears hopeless. Yet one of the finest things about these college teams is the manner in which the boys cling to their spirit and their hopes. One last desperate charge against the old, old foe!

conjunction with the showing of the picture, "Evelyn Prentiss," at the theater beginning Friday of this week. The "Myrna Loy" trophy will be given to the winner of the women's event.

A tenpin sweepstakes that was planned for Saturday will be delayed until the following week-end, as a two-team match with Birmingham, Ala., is scheduled for this coming week-end. Definite lineups for the Atlanta and Birmingham teams are not available at this time, but a good pair of matches is always assured when these teams

Mercer over Washington & Seiters and Union University's win from the University of Mexico.

Despite its fine record against southwest opposition, Centenary fell victim to two Oklahoma elevens. The University of Oklahoma conquered the Gentlemen by a touchdown, this game ending a winning streak of the Shreve-port gridders that had reached 24 consecutive triumphs. Tulsa whipped the Gentlemen last week by a close score.

LOYOLA LOSES.

Loyola, of New Orleans, also has dropped two contests to "foreign" opponents, losing to Rice and Texas Christian, while George Washington has added a pair of wins over Citadel and Wake Forest to the outsiders' total.

"ALL FOR ROOSEVELT." One of the better yarns of Georgia's victory over Yale last Saturday in New Haven concerns a visit which Ducky Pond, Yale's head coach, made to Harry Mehre, of Georgia, before "You fellows come up here all imbued with the Civil War spirit," said Mr. Pond, woefully, "and what have we to offer in rebuttal? Nothing except that we are all for Roosevelt.' Pond, whose team has defeated Pennsylvania, Brown and Dartmouth, has really done a good job at Yale. The wonder is he has done as well, what with "Greasy" Neale, of West Virginia, and Ivan Williamson, of Michigan, as chief assistants.

COLGATE'S MAGIC. Despite the fact that most coaches frown on the Colgate style football, which swamped Tulane, the fact remains that this style is going to be that generally adapted in the future. The trend is all toward more and more handling of the ball. Colgate, for instance, employed four laterals on the return of a kick-off. The forward-lateral was thought sensational when employed a couple of years ago. And now the lateral-forward-lateral excites no great surprise. The one weakness of the lateral game is that the team employing it must have a basically sound running attack to begin with. In other words, a team cannot accomplish much with just a lateral attack. It must have a running game to make the passing game good. Just as no team can make a pass game effective unless it has the running threat.

Consequently football will not become, as some coaches insist, just another basketball game. The running game must always be there to enable the lateral side of it to move along.

Colgate has the good backs necessary. They have blazed the way. Next year the coaches with capable, experienced players will begin to use more lateral stuff. Football is just And the crowds will come back bigger and better with the win by a margin of two touchdowns.

PAUL JONES RETURNS. Paul Jones, Atlanta's favorite rib crusher, cast always as the hero, returns to the auditorium ring tonight. I must hie down to see Paulie at work. He is expert and he is ever the hero. Orville Brown has made friends, but tonight they'll cheer for the boy with the agile legs—Paulie, their favorite rib IHE secret of the thermos bottle is simply this: one bottle hermetically sealed inside another, giving perfect insulation. And that's exactly the kind of a "break" that nature gave the Ilama, Every strand of his fleece has a second strand sealed inside. The result... no cold can penetrate it. It's a difficult fleece to weave, too, so silky soft and smooth - but it's decidedly worth the unusual effort it takes. The roars of the lion came closer. Presently the two travelers came to an open spot by a river, flooded with the mellow light of a rising moon. Obroski's eyes did not dwell on the scene, for before them loomed the yellow body of a lion, topped by a rippling black mane.

Tarzan continued steadily forward and laid a hand upon the great lion. "You may come up now," he said, "so that Jad-bal-jad, may get your scent and know you are a friend. Afterward, he will never harm you-unless I tell him to." Numb with

Cutting corners is a common practice and a dangerous one. Left turns should be made through the center point of the intersection except where semaphores or buttons call for aq inside turn. Even then the turns should be made as close to the center point of the intersection as possible. Cutting corners places you in the other fellow's territory and he might claim it.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My husband is one of the best. In return I try to be a deserving wife. He I try to be a deserving wife. He often compliments me and praises my thrift, and is entirely generous. But here is what breaks my heart: His mother, whose life and happiness is centered on money, thinks that I should be proud of and use the old, unattractive furniture which was used by my husband and his first wife for many years. I had always anticipated a small, inexpensive, attractive apartment with new, cheerful furnishings selected by ourselves. But, my ambition for by ourselves. But, my ambition for housekeeping is waning. How could any wife thrill over dull, odd pieces of furniture, bought and used by her husband's first love? I am not extravagant. I'm fully acquainted with the economical situation that we face. I realize that there is always a possibility of my husband's losing his fair-salaried position. But, by my mother's own experience, I know that if we wait until we're old we will not enjoy those things. My friends have nice new furnish-My friends have nice new furnishings, and I am placed in an embarrassing position and it reflects on my husband. Besides, I saved enough while working to get the things I want. All that we have new is a suite that I bought before I married. Oh, why must people forget that they were once young and wanted the same things? I am no conscienceless flapper. I know how money comes, and I believe in preparing for the rainy day. But the expense connected with children is not nor will be ours. I like money for the comforts it can buy. My mother-in-law likes it for the jingle of it. Am I entirely wrong? My mother-in-law lines ... jingle of it. Am I entirely wrong WIFE.

Answer: Right or wrong, your mother-in-law is meddlesome and should be taught to mind her own business. The sooner you set her business. The sooner you set her firmly in her place the better off you will be. VOLS OUTLINE 10-GAME CARD

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 12.—(47)
A ten-game schedule has been outlined for the 1935 University of Tennessee football team. The schedule includes six Southeastern conference teams, two Southern conference toes and two teams from the S. I. A. A. Southwestern of Memphis and the Auburn Tigers are the new teams on the 1935 slate. These teams will replace Fordham and Mississippi State. The schedule was announced by N. W. Dougherty, faculty chairman of athletics.

September 28 — Southwestern at Knoxville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 12.—(47)
The Vanderbilt University eleven will play two intersectional games, one in New York, the other in Philadelphia, next season, Coach Dan McGugin revealed in announcing the 1935 schedule. Auburn, Cincinnati and George University, of Philadelphia, and Fordedule. In their places are Temple University, of Philadelphia, and Fordedule. The Philadelphia game, set for Friday, October 11, will be a night game, as the Cincinnati meet was this year.

Franklin, president of the National Association of Securities Commissioners, in his address here before the opening session of the association. Dr. Irving Perrine, consulting geologist of Oklahoma City, discussing the relation of the oil industry to securities, told the meeting that he believed science would develop machinery and solvents to push the depth of oil wells down to 15,000 feet and increase their production. Mr. Franklin declared his belief that federal control of securities sales would be tighter in the future. He branded as demagogues those who oppose the bureaucratic form of government. "If the government is to function along big business lines," he said, "it must pursue its course along bureaucratic lines just as business develops its specialty controls."	WINNIPEG GRAIN QUOTATIONS. The United States market on a holiday, inter-market operations were curtailed, resulting in the slow market. Values were traded at levels under the previous close for most of the session with little support in evidence.

Declines at Liverpool were the chief factors in determining local values. Prices in the English market closed 1-8 pence to 5-8 pence lower, This was believed to be due to lack of demand on the continent for wheat.

Export sales of Canadian wheat totaled less than 200,000 bushels. Cash grains were quiet. Coarse grains futures traded sluggishly, following trends of wheat.
